ABSTRACT

A segment of data is accepted from a host system, a portion of the segment identifying a broadcast domain. The portion is compared with an identifier for an excluded broadcast domain, and the segment is filtered from a network connection if the portion corresponds to the identifier.